

June 1-3, 2021

TRAUMA, HEALING, & RACIAL & ETHNIC DISPARITIES IN CHILD-SERVING SYSTEMS

Lani Jones, Ph.D., LICSW

University at Albany School of Social Welfare & Department of Women, Gender, and Sexual Studies

Lani V. Jones, Ph.D. LICSW is a Black feminist scholar and therapist. She is an Associate Professor in the School of Social Welfare and the Department of Women, Gender, and Sexual Studies at the University at Albany, SUNY. She has more than twenty years of experience in providing therapy to Women of Color.

Her research and scholarship are concentrated in the area of mental health practice research with a focus on enhancing psychosocial competence among Women of Color. Her works include African Americans and depression: Signs, awareness, treatments, and interventions (Roman and Littlefield) as well as numerous articles and book chapters.

A virtual forum hosted by the New York State Youth Justice Institute