

June 1-3, 2021

RACIAL AND ETHNIC DISPARITIES IN CHILD SERVING SYSTEMS: HEALING

LeConté Dill, Ph.D.

New York University, African Centre for Migration & Society, Wits University

Dr. LeConté Dill is the Director of Public Health Practice and a Clinical Associate Professor at the New York University School of Global Public Health. Since 2015, she has also been a Research Associate at the African Centre for Migration & Society at Wits University in Johannesburg, South Africa.

Dr. Dill identifies as a community-accountable scholar, educator, and poet. Guided by black Feminist epistemologies and using qualitative and arts-based research methods, she has a commitment toward transdisciplinary research. Dr Dill listens to shows up for urban Black girls and other youth of color and works to rigorously document their experiences of violence, safety, resilience, and wellness.

A virtual forum hosted by the New York State Youth Justice Institute